

Attachments:

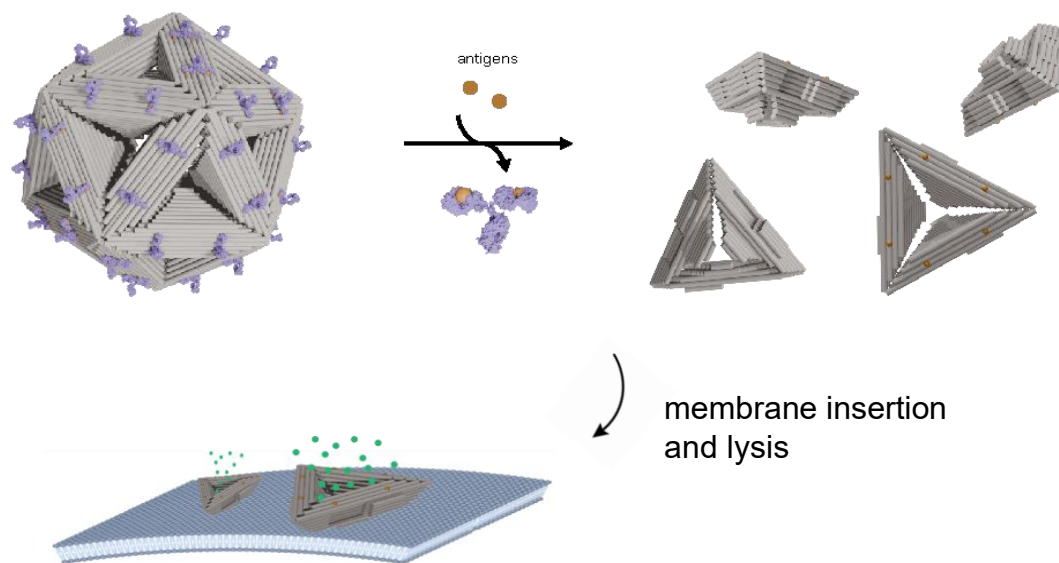

Figure 1: IgG-mediated stabilization and antigen-triggered disassembly of icosahedral DNA origami shells. The individual triangular building blocks, equipped with a potential pore-forming moiety, are designed to insert into the lipid membrane and cause lysis.

The lipid membrane displayed in the figure was created with BioRender.com.